

Psalmodikon

Date

1840-1860 ca.

Description

Psalmodikon is the vernacular name in Norwegian and Swedish. Norwegian tradition for psalmodikon practice utilizes the transposition stick or rule, placed above the fretboard to facilitate use in various keys for an array of singing situations. Unlike the Norwegian tradition, Swedish instruments typically do not use the transposition stick, and therefore, the brackets for holding, as well as the wear marks for use of, are not present.

Dimensions

Length: 908 mm (35.75 in) Width: 89 mm (3.5 in) Height: 39 mm (1.5 in)