

Flute, C

Date

1766-1804 ca.

Primary Maker

Johann August Crone

Description

Boxwood flute in four sections, with two extra upper middle joints (three corps de rechange in total). One brass key with rectangular flap mounted in a turned ring. Ivory ferrules and headcap. Johann August Crone (1727-1804) reportedly employed a workforce of about 30, not including apprentices. His successor and daughter, Rosina Sophie Amalie, assumed control of the workshop upon his death.

Dimensions

Overall length (with longest to shortest upper middle joint): 641 mm, 632 mm, 620 mm Embouchure hole: 8.9 mm x 8.4 mm Sounding length: 546.1 mm